NEWS RELEASE

City begins sewer rehab projects

August 30, 2006 – Over the next few weeks, the Department of Watershed Management will begin sewer rehabilitation projects in the Utoy Creek (southwest Atlanta), South River (southwest and southeast) and Peachtree Creek (Buckhead) sewer basins. The projects involve repair or replacement of “Priority 1” sewers identified in the Sewer System Evaluation Survey.

The repair work will be accomplished using a combination of trenchless methods, localized point repairs and some open-cut pipe replacement. The City will be repairing/replacing approximately 250,000 linear feet of sewer pipe during Phase I of this project. Phase II will begin during the second quarter of 2007. Potential impacts include traffic detours, noise and dust. A list of affected streets in each basin is attached.

“Once again, we ask our customers for their patience as we begin these projects,” said Commissioner Rob Hunter. “These sewer rehabilitation projects are critical components of the Clean Water Atlanta program and will help us meet our obligations to our customers and our downstream neighbors.”
